Dear Prospective Partner:

The National Health Sciences Students' Association (NaHSSA) welcomes you to join our team. Partnering with NaHSSA is an investment in Canadian healthcare. Together, NaHSSA and its partners provide support and opportunities for the next generation of healthcare leaders.

NaHSSA was established in 2005 and is the first national interprofessional student association in the world. NaHSSA is a network of local university and college-based chapters and students that promote interprofessional education and collaborative patient-centered practice in Canada. NaHSSA enables students to advocate for and learn from this form of education through social networking and leadership opportunities.

NaHSSA partners with various agencies and organizations at local, national, and international levels. In collaboration with NaHSSA, our partners aim to develop leadership opportunities in interprofessional health education and practice.

If you are interested in partnering with NaHSSA, please send the following information to the President of NaHSSA, Jason Nickerson, at president@nahssa.ca.
